PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION

This edition has been made as accurate as possible. No time nor effort was spared to achieve this result, however, it would be expecting too much to assume that no mistakes were made.

Those discovering mistakes or omissions are asked to communicate with the historian, Mrs. Henry E. Pond, Petersburg, Ill. Donors are asked to check the history regarding their articles and report errors. In instances where the history is lacking we urge the donors to make an effort to trace it and help us make this record complete.

Where the address of the donor is omitted it shall be assumed to be Petersburg, Ill. Articles printed in boldface type were actually used or sold at New Salem.

Appreciation is due Mrs. Henry E. Pond and Mrs. George D. Warnsing for their painstaking work, covering many months, checking over each of the hundreds of articles so that this edition might be complete and accurate.

FOREWORD

This descriptive booklet and catalog has been published by the State of Illinois for a twofold purpose; to acquaint visitors with the village and its restoration, and to recognize those who so generously donated their cherished relics.

The restoration of the village, together with the furnishing of the cabins, has been a task of great magnitude. Hundreds of articles were donated, collected, repaired, delivered and placed in position. The history concerning each relic has been carefully noted and recorded, but, it is possible that some mistakes have been made. We ask your kind indulgence. In a future edition, these errors will be corrected; also those articles received since this booklet went to press, will be acknowledged.

Many articles have a definite history which establishes their authenticity. Others are easily recognized as being over one hundred years old. However, some have an indefinite record and character, but were accepted because of the splendid spirit with which they were given and consequently have found their place in the restoration. These doubtful articles will be studied carefully by experts at a later date and those found to be of a later period will be marked accordingly.

There are museums throughout the United States which contain fine period rooms and exhibits. However, this is, without doubt, the finest and most comprehensive collection of Early American and Pioneer relics ever assembled. Nowhere is the setting so complete and authentic. The town, the only memorial of its kind, ever erected in honor of a great man, will be a shrine for generations to come. At no other location will the spirit of Abraham Lincoln be so close and real.

NEW SALEM

In the fall of 1828, James Rutledge and John Camron erected homes on this hill. The following year they built a grist and saw mill on the Sangamon River, just below the hill, laid out the town of New Salem and began to sell lots. The mill became so popular that the town grew rapidly and flourished for several years, although it never included more than one hundred inhabitants. With the founding and growth of Petersburg, two miles to the north and more accessibly located, its decline began. When the seat of the new County of Menard was located at Petersburg in 1839, New Salem quickly passed out of existence.

Abraham Lincoln resided at New Salem from the summer of 1831 until the spring of 1837, supporting himself successively as clerk and mill-hand, soldier in the Black Hawk War, store keeper, postmaster and deputy surveyor. In 1832 he entered politics. Although defeated in his first campaign for the Legislature, he was elected a member of the House of Representatives in 1834 and again in 1836. Throughout his residence at New Salem, Lincoln strove to perfect his education, studying grammar, mathematics, and finally law. Upon his admission to the Bar in March, 1837, he sought greater opportunities than New Salem offered, and therefore removed to Springfield.

From descriptive sign on entrance road, by Paul M. Angle, Librarian,
State Historical Library.

THE RESTORATION

The restoration of New Salem, Abraham Lincoln's home from 1831 to 1837, has been under consideration for the past thirty years. The first active step was taken in 1906, when the citizens of Petersburg engaged the interest of William Randolph Hearst, who was lecturing at the Old Salem Chautauqua in Petersburg. Mr. Hearst at that time purchased the site and conveyed it in trust to the Chautauqua association. Later in 1917, the Old Salem Lincoln League was formed at Petersburg, to carry on research work and keep alive the interest already aroused. The Chautauqua Association, with Mr. Hearst's consent, conveyed the site to the State of Illinois, to be used as a State Park, and in 1918 the League, with funds raised by popular subscription, erected several cabins on original sites, built a road, marked other cabin sites and in celebration of the occasion, gave a pageant depicting scenes of pioneer days.

During the following years the public interest in the Park increased, and visitors from all parts of the United States came annually to visit the old town site. Finally the movement to restore the town gained such momentum, that in 1931 the 57th General Assembly passed a bill appropriating $50,000 to the Department of Public Works and Buildings, H. H. Cleaveland, Director, for "Permanent Improvements" at New Salem State Park. In anticipation of the passage of this Bill, the Division of Architecture and Engineering had already begun the research work. During the following two years every known source throwing light on the project was examined and investigated.

The Bill was approved by Governor Emmerson July 2, 1931, and the following year July 16, he signed the Requisition. During the following months the information was assembled, checked and analyzed, plans and specifications were drawn and advertisements for proposals were published October 21, 1932.

The general contract for the construction of twelve cabins was awarded to English Brothers, general contractors of Champaign, Illinois, November 4, 1932; a few days later ground was broken and on November 17, the corner stone, located in the foundation of the Berry-Lincoln Store, was laid by Governor Louis L. Emmerson.

At present, thirteen cabins have been restored on their original sites. The work thus far accomplished is only a portion of the completed project. It is hoped that in the near future it will be possible to go on with the work, and restore the first Grist and Saw Mill, Rowan Herndon house, Onstot's first house and Cooper Shop, and John Camron's house in the eastern portion of the town. At present, the central portion does not include the Rutledge Tavern, Herndon Brothers store, and Hill's Carding Machine and wool house. There is yet to be built in the western portion, the houses of Isaac Burner, Philemon Morris, Isaac Gollamer and the Trent Brothers.

It is also hoped that all the old roads may be restored and properly marked. When the smoke houses, sheds, fences and other minor structures are built and the cabins are surrounded by appropriate old-fashioned planting, the town will really live again.

Reprinted from "Record of the Restoration of New Salem"
By Joseph F. Booton.

It is appropriate that this portion of the Restoration was completed during the administration of Governor Henry Horner, who has always been a student of Lincolniana and is a noted authority on the subject. The restored town is a part of New Salem State Park which is supervised and controlled by the Department of Public Works and Buildings. Mr. Robert Kingery, now Director of the Department, and during the early stage of the Restoration, Secretary of the Board of State Park Advisors, has taken an active part in the Restoration since its beginning. Appreciation is due Dr. C. M. Service, Departmental Inspector of this Department, for his help and advice.

Guided by Mr. C. Herrick Hammond, Supervising Architect, the Division of Architecture and Engineering supervised the project throughout. Under the direction of Mr. Joseph F. Booton, the Division carried on the research work, prepared the plans and specifications and superintended the construction of the restored cabins.

We also wish to acknowledge the assistance and counsel of Mr. Paul M. Angle, Librarian of the State Historical Library. Appreciation is due the Abraham Lincoln Association through its President, Mr. Logan Hay, and Mr. Benjamin Thomas, Secretary, for its cooperation and assistance.

The furniture and relics have been assembled by the Old Salem Lincoln League of Petersburg. All costs of transportation and repairs were paid from funds raised by the League. The work, in connection with the assembling of this collection, has been tremendous and only those who have had a first hand view of the activities can fully appreciate the time and effort involved. We are indeed grateful to the various Old Salem Lincoln League Committees who have worked so hard to bring about the final results. Great credit is due the Committee on "Collection of Cabin Furnishings" especially Mrs. G. D. Warnsing, chairman. They scoured the surrounding countryside for suitable pioneer relics and assembled them in their present form. Appreciation is due Mrs. Henry E. Pond, who compiled the history concerning each article.

The State of Illinois gratefully acknowledges the kind assistance of those, too numerous to mention individually, who helped solve the many perplexing problems.

HENRY ONSTOT'S RESIDENCE

Henry Onstot, cooper, built a two-room house in the Spring of 1835. Later, needing additional space, he added the frame lean-to. This was Onstot's third home in the village. He built the first in the eastern portion of town about 1830, upon his arrival in New Salem. From 1833 to 1835 the Onstots lived at the Tavern, which they operated after the Rutledges moved to Sandridge.

In 1840 Onstot moved to Petersburg and re-erected his home and cooper shop on Main Street, where he lived and worked for many years.

The large east room was the parlor, dining room and kitchen. The two west rooms served as bed rooms.

ONSTOT'S COOPER SHOP

Henry Onstot, cooper, erected his second shop while operating The Rutledge Tavern in 1834. A year later he built his residence to the west and lived there until 1840. Abraham Lincoln and Isaac Onstot, the eldest son, were friends and often studied together here by the light of the fire kindled by the cooper's shavings.

In 1840 the shop was moved to Petersburg, where Onstot carried on his business for many years. Later weatherboarding was added on the exterior, larger windows were installed, and it was used as a residence until 1922, when it was purchased by the Old Salem Lincoln League, stripped of its weatherboarding and re-erected on this original site.

This cabin will be restored in the near future. A new chimney will be erected, the windows made smaller, new doors installed, and the entire structure will be treated with a preservative. The interior will contain barrels, kegs and tubs, which will be shown in their various stages, from the beginning to the completed product.

MILLER AND KELSO RESIDENCE

Joshua Miller, village blacksmith and wagonmaker, and Jack H. Kelso, fisherman, hunter and philosopher, erected a double house in 1832. They married sisters. Although both were industrious, their efforts were directed along different lines. Miller was engaged in shoeing horses, ironing wagons and forging other ironwork, while Kelso was busy fishing, trapping and reading. Lincoln was attracted to Kelso and through him first became acquainted with the classics of literature. Both families left New Salem in 1838 or 1839.

The Millers had two children and lived in the two east rooms. The Kelsos, having no children, lived in the single room on the west. The open space between served as the dining and sitting porch for both families during the warmer seasons.

ROBERT JOHNSON'S RESIDENCE

Robert Johnson, the wheelwright and furniture maker, built a log cabin, probably during the year 1831. The Johnsons, who had three children, were a family of modest means. They were devout members of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and regularly attended the Rock Creek Camp meetings.

It is probable that they abandoned their home about 1839, during the general exodus from New Salem, and left for a destination now unknown.

The main room was the family living quarters. The lean-to was Johnson's shop where he made wagon wheels, farming tools, spinning wheels and other furniture.

MARTIN WADDELL'S RESIDENCE

Martin Waddell, the hatter, built a two-room house about 1832. He made hats of fur and wool in the small south room and boiled his wool in the kettle, which is the original one, under the porch roof.

The Waddell family left New Salem about 1838. Whether the house was abandoned or moved away is not known.

The large room was the family living quarters. The small south room was a combination bed room and hatter's shop.

DR. FRANCIS REGNIER'S OFFICE

This one room log cabin was erected by Henry Sinco in 1831, and it is believed he used it as a store. During the following year Dr. Francis Regnier, twenty-five years of age and son of a French physician, came to New Salem and bought the lot and cabin from Sinco. He lived here alone, using the cabin as a combined home and office, until August, 1834, when he married and moved to Clary's Grove with his bride, Sophia Ann Goldsmith. Eventually the doctor and his wife moved to Petersburg where he established an extensive practice and took an active interest in civic affairs.

The contents of this cabin were collected and assembled by descendants of Dr. Francis Regnier.

Appreciation is due Ella R. Branson Craig, granddaughter, Virginia Rainey Eastman, great-granddaughter, both of Petersburg, Ill., for assuming the direct responsibility, and to Anne Rainey McCullough, granddaughter, and Inez Regnier McCullough, great-granddaughter, Springfield, Ill., for their assistance.

THE RESIDENCE AND SHOP OF PETER LUKINS AND ALEXANDER FERGUSON

Peter Lukins, a shoemaker, built his house some time during 1831 and lived there one year. In 1832 he entered a quarter-section of land two miles north of New Salem, settled there, and had it surveyed into lots and streets. This was the founding of Petersburg.

Alexander Ferguson, another cobbler and shoemaker, arrived about the time Lukins left, moved into the house and took up Lukins' trade. About 1839, when the village was abandoned, he moved away.

The main room was the family living quarters. The lean-to was used by the shoemakers as their shop.

THE CLARKE MEMORIAL

Articles listed as "Donated by the Clarke Family" form a collection which is dedicated to the memory of Charles James Fox Clarke and his wife Rachel Smith Clarke. These items came from the Clarke home, erected in 1839, and were placed here by Mr. Charles R. Clarke, son; Minnie Clarke Burkholder (Mrs. John Burkholder), daughter; and Mary Burkholder Eades, Helen Clarke Boule and Hubert Clarke, grand children.

C. J. F. Clarke came to New Salem during the winter of 1833-34 and lived with Abraham Lincoln at the Rutledge Tavern where they slept in the loft. He purchased a homestead located a short distance from New Salem. In 1839 he married Rachel Smith and erected his home which still stands. He farmed his land, became a cobbler, then a carpenter and finally a cabinet maker. Most of the furniture of this collection was made by Clarke with his own hands.

Later in life he served as county commissioner and, for eight years, as county judge. In 1870 he died in the same house he erected in 1839.

This collection was never removed from the Clarke home until 1933 when it was brought to New Salem.

DR. JOHN ALLEN'S RESIDENCE

Doctor John Allen came to New Salem in 1830. In 1833 he built a three room log residence and on March 27, 1834, married Mary E. Moore. Because of his extensive practice, he became one of New Salem's most prosperous citizens. He was a devout Presbyterian and established the village's first Sunday School and Temperance Society in his house.

The Allens moved to Petersburg in 1838. The following year a tenant whose name is now unknown lived in the cabin; the next two years the Traylor family occupied it and finally, in 1842, it was abandoned.

The main room was the parlor, dining room and kitchen, the lean-to served as a bed room and the west room was used by the doctor as an office.

THE FRACKELTON COLLECTION

Doctor Allen married the sister of Dr Charles Chandler, founder of Chandlerville. Dr. Chandler's daughter married David S. Frackelton of Petersburg. Because of this relationship the descendents of David S. Frackelton, Charles C., son; Mrs. C. C. Frackelton; son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Frackelton; and Mr. and Mrs. W. Smoot Antle chose the Dr. Allen cabin to house the Frackelton relics.

David S. Frackelton, born in Ireland, Feb. 14, 1827, came to America in 1843 with his brother Robert. David clerked in the store of W. M. Cowgill in 1844-45, his salary being $75 00 per year including board. From 1846 to 1857 David operated the store with his brother Robert under the name of W. M. Cowgill and Company. In 1865 the brothers organized a bank in Petersburg which, after several changes in name, is still operating, with Charles C. Frackelton as Vice President. Appreciation is due Mrs. W. Smoot Antle, niece-in-law of C. C. Frackelton, for her work in collecting and assembling the contents of this cabin.

HILL-McNAMAR STORE

Samuel Hill erected New Salem's first store in 1829. He conducted the enterprise with John McNamar (who at that time assumed the name McNeil) until 1831, but from that time on he operated the store alone. In 1839 he moved to Petersburg. Hill was appointed Postmaster on Christmas Day, 1829, consequently this became New Salem's first post office. Later, Abraham Lincoln served the latter portion of his postmaster-ship here, while clerking for Hill. This was the village's only store after the failures of Offutt, Trent Brothers and Berry & Lincoln. Its stock was very complete and was one of Hill's several prosperous enterprises. The structure was moved to Petersburg and re-erected there in 1839.

116. THREE CANS OF BAKER'S COCOA

DONATED by Walter Baker & Co., and the General Foods Corporation.

The Walter Baker Company was manufacturing cocoa in Dorchester, Massachusetts, at the time New Salem existed and no doubt their cans of cocoa were sold here.

BERRY-LINCOLN STORE

George Warburton, in 1830, erected New Salem's only sheathed structure. Later the Christman Brothers and Reuben Radford also operated stores here. In January, 1833, Wm. F. Berry and Abraham Lincoln moved here from their first store, located just west of Ferguson's residence. Lincoln served a portion of his postmaster-ship in this building.

During the early summer of 1833 Lincoln sold his interest to Berry, who later sold the enterprise to the Trent Brothers. The Trents suddenly left the country and Berry resumed the business until he died in 1835. It is thought McNamar and Dr. Allen then took over the store and, in 1837, moved it to Petersburg.

The large room was the store proper, while the rear lean-to served as a store room and, for a time, as Lincoln's bed room.

DENTON OFFUT'S STORE

Denton Offut secured a license on July 8, 1831, to operate a retail store in New Salem. With the assistance of Abraham Lincoln he erected a log store building the following month. After its completion Lincoln was employed as a clerk. He slept in the rear room and boarded with the Rowan Herndon family who lived a short distance to the south west. Later Offut rented the mill and employed William Green to assist Lincoln with the details of both enterprises.

This famous little store operated for the short period of eight months and closed its door in April, 1832, when Offut fled the country leaving his creditors unpaid. Whether it was abandoned or moved away is not known.

Eventually, when more relics are obtained this store will be "Opened for business". It was thought best to concentrate the available articles in the Hill-McNamar and Berry & Lincoln stores, which groups the exhibits and makes a better showing.

CLARY'S GROCERY

William Clary, brother of John Clary the first settler in Menard County and founder of Clary's Grove five miles west of New Salem, built a "grocery" about 1830. This was the town saloon, and was operated as such until 1833, when Clary migrated to Texas. No definite information has been recorded regarding the cabin after that date. It probably continued to serve as the meeting place of the rougher element for a short time with a new proprietor and later was abandoned or moved to Petersburg.

The cock fights, wrestling matches, gander-pulling contests and horse races usually originated here. All of them took place in this neighborhood except the horse races, which were staged in the western portion of town.
